The conference will provide an opportunity for researchers to present results of lab experiments, framed and randomized field experiments. Theoretical papers explicitly dealing with experimental/behavioral issues are also welcome.

The distinguished keynote speakers for the 2016 Conference are Professors Rachel Croson (University of Texas at Arlington) and Simon Gaechter (Nottingham University).

The 2015 Conference in Paris attracted about 140 scholars from many countries.

The Conference will take place at the ESSEC Business School, in Cergy-Pontoise. The School is located 35 km West of Paris (direct connection through RER A, or by Highway A15). Lunches will be provided on the Campus. A special event – Dinner at the Chateau d’Auvers sur Oise in the Impressionists’ County – is scheduled for the Thursday evening.

Organizers recommend to participants to book their room in Cergy hotels (a list of hotels at walking distance from the school is provided on the conference website). Commuting with Paris is feasible, but is not always efficient.
